

SOLOMILLO: CHARCUTERIA / MEAT BY WEIGHT

The “Solomillo” house in Barcelona, a new restaurant and an example of classic but contemporary Spanish design

Alexandra Barcelona Hotel, Curio Collection by Hilton presents its gastronomic offer, based on a “meat by weight” formula and a delicatessen, managed by Enrique Valentí. The famous chef was commissioned by the hotel to come up with the restaurant concept and the gastronomic approach.

Solomillo is a new gastronomic proposal of Alexandra Barcelona Hotel in the heart of the city. A gastronomic discovery in two levels. Downstairs, the Charcutería, with a terrace in Mallorca Street, where you can taste select cheese plates, cold cuts and market products. And in the first floor, the Restaurant, a new interpretation of the traditional brasserie, with a simple and original formula: meat by weight

Two new spaces opened to the city, with a warm and cosy interior design in the restaurant, while in the ground floor the space has been renovated as a more informal space for the delicatessen. This is a pioneering project in Barcelona based on a themed restaurant where diners can enjoy sirloin steak, the premium cut of all meats – sourced from three different cattle breeds – served to their liking depending on how they like it cooked, served and what garnish they prefer

The Charcutería

The Delicatessen, in the ground floor, renovated as an informal space with the look of a traditional delicatessen and a terrace, offers Iberian cold cuts, as well as local and Catalan cold cuts and quality cheeses, with more than 25 references -aged and selected by Eva Vila from Vila Viniteca- from most renowned cheese makers of our country.

Thus, the Charcuteria becomes the meeting point of the hotel, where you can buy and taste its large offer- from cold cuts, to cocktails at night, depending on the time of day

A balance between classic and contemporary interior style

Solomillo and the Charcutería are the result of a complete renovation of the two different spaces, in the ground floor and in the first floor. The interior design was conceived by the Barcelona based studio Borrell Jover Arquitectos, who has used materials from Spanish firms associated to RED (Reunión Empresas de Diseño)
